THE EDITOR'S CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Editor and the Opinion of Others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

What do you think of "that address" that was so long look far and at last came forward with such a bland and conservative smile? Well we have not thought much about it. We look upon it, as a kind harmless and superfluous nonentity. The meeting that produced it was unnecessary, and the opinion of ten men amounts to but little with a citizenship of a million and a half. The people know what they want and when the time comes will act. If there are any compromises to be made they will make them themselves. The committee was not clothed with any authority to speak for the people in the coming campaign. They will send their delegates to conventions to do that.

What do you think of Crisp for Speaker? is a question we have had frequently asked. Well, we think he is the best man of those who were prominently in the race. The election of Mills would have been a calamity even if he had not sold out to New England to get elected. He would blindly and to no purpose have ridden his tariff hobby to the exclusion of all other remedial legislation. He would have organized the House so as to have throttled any attempt at silver legislation or other financial reform measure. Crisp gave the Alliance to understand that he would tote fair on these points, so nearly all the Alliance men voted for him on the wind up.

We heard a very intelligent (and we thought well informed) man say a few days since that while the farmers might have some grounds of complaint under present low prices, yet that those who work for wages in the industries were never better paid in comparison with the value of the products they helped to earn. Now let us see how this is. The figures of the census on this matter for 1890 are not yet out, but let us see how it was in 1880 compared to 1860. The total amount paid in wages in 1860 was $2,689,441, in 1880 it was $2,740,768, only as light incease, while the number of wage earners 1860 was only 14,217 to 18,109 in 1880. This shows a considerable actual decrease in wages, while the value of the products he worked to make increased from $16,678,698 in 1860 to $20,095,037 in 1880. If these figures are correct, the day laborer as well as the farmer has a just grievance; and let the figures tell what they may, he feels his grievance and will stand by the farmer in the fight for financial reform.

The Mecklenburg Times made a statement that certain Alliance men in its county were signing a pledge to vote the third party ticket. A cold chill runs down the backs of the little 2x4 partisan editors, they begin to howl and charge that the Alliance, as an organization, was pledging its members to vote the third party ticket. When they say that, it amounts to saying that they do not believe the often repeated and published expressions of the organization stating its true position. Such papers will be passed by with silent contempt by the Order. Whether or not such a pledge exists or not, we do not know, but if it does it is of course, without any knowledge or authority from the organization. Any Democrat or Republican, whether a member of the Alliance or not, has a perfect right to sign or circulate such a petition or pledge and the State officers have no right or power to attempt to stop such action unless some one should claim to be doing so in the name or by the authority of the Alliance. But there are some men at the Alliance pledges and intends to pledge more of them before they get our votes. But as to that Mecklenburg circular, it is our opinion that some shrewd enemy of the Order is the author of it and his object was to try to get up something that he could use to damage the Order. Watch out for sneeking enemies.

HOLD YOUR COTTON.

If you can hold your cotton we feel safe in guaranteeing a better price. Yes, cotton will rise. Mark our prediction.

The predictions that are being sent out from New York and published in the newspapers all over the country that the cotton crop will be unusally large is without foundation and is wholly false. It is the work of stock gamblers to aid them in their speculation schemes. In fact we are in possession of reliable information which shows that the world's cotton crop, according to the estimates of the best experts, will fall under the published estimates by more than a million bales. Further, we have in our possession a confidential circular which was intended to circulate on the inside among speculators which puts the cotton crop of the world at 1,300,000 bales short of the figures they have published to the world. According to their own estimate the cotton crop of this year will fall short of the estimated needs of the world at least 600,000 bales. It is true we lost last year by holding back cotton, but the crop was unusually large which with a contracted money supply enabled the spectator to steadily push down the price. In fact we can seldom afford to try to hold a crop as long as a few money sharks can control the volume of currency. But with the great shortage in the crop this year it is hardly possible that they will be able to keep down the price if the farmers will hold up and stop selling.

The following resolution was offered before the Supreme Council of the Alliance at Indianapolis by Marion Butler of North Carolina and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That being in possession of facts that are thoroughly reliable, which warrant us in a belief that a false estimate has been purposely made of the present crop of cotton, we feel safe in guaranteeing better prices if cotton can be held for sixty days.

We know that many will be forced to sell in order to do themselves and their creditors justice, but let every man hold who can.

NOTES ON THE INDIANAPOLIS MEETING.

We had intended giving our readers an extended account of our trip to Indianapolis and also of the business before and the actions of the National meeting, but important work in the field and also press of accumulated business, both official and private that faced me upon my return has monopolized my time. But there are several of the many gross misrepresentations published by the partisan press which they have not yet seen fit to correct to which I will now refer. First is the statement that the Alliance, according to the National Secretary's books, had greatly lossed in membership, Every delegate knows this to be a malicious falsehood. The only shadow of a ground for this inference by the outside world, was the fact that several states elected more delegates than they were entitled to have seated. The best test for membership in good standing is the amount of money paid into the treasury in dues, and according to secretary's books the amount paid during the last year was a little over a third larger than last year, hence a net increase in membership of 33⅓ per cent.

Second is the statement that the Alliance split in twain over the Sub-Treasury plan. We believe that many of the papers that published this knew they were publishing a lie at the time and none of them that we have seen have had the mannood and courage to correct it. By a unanimous vote the Supreme Council endorsed the sub-Treasury plan, and the delegates in doing so acted under the almost unanimous instructions of every State Alliance in the Union. All this talk about a split was manufactured and magnified out of the following little harmless and insignificant side show. One McAlister who it is supposed is in the pay of somebody who is fighting the Alliance, and three other so-called anti-sub-Treasuryites who have been discountenced by the Alliances went up to Indianapolis to enter a protest against the Sub-Treasury and to teach the whole Alliance world that it was wrong, etc. When these men with unparalled cheek asked for a hearing, the first impulse was to pay no attention to them, but upon second thought it occurred to the National meeting that that was exactly what they expected and desired, and as a further evidence of this it was learned that a reporter of the Asso. ciated telegraph dispatches who had been sent from New York was closeted with McAlister, and waiting to publish to the world that the Alliance was afraid to discuss the Sub-Treasury, etc., etc. So the Supreme Council sent a challenge to McAlister to discuss the Sub-Treasury plan publicly in Indianapolis, or through the public prints. McAlister and his crowd took water and left. This was news, but the lying associated press would not send it out over its wires. And this is all there is of the great split. Great prominence was given to him and his renegades by the public press, but, dear reader, if you had been at the meeting you would not have seen him or known he was in the town.

Third, the effort to make it appear that the Alliance had gone into partisan politics and that the National meeting was nothing more than a Third Party council. The fact is the Third Party, nor for that matter any other party, was not discussed or considered either directly or indirectly in the slightest manner whatever during the whole meeting. Those who know anything about the Alliance know that it is not and can never be a political party, for the day it should attempt to be, it would die. This its enemies know hence they are very anxious for it to give up its great work and objects and descend to the level of a political machine. In this event the machines might live as other party machines do, but the Alliance would be dead, its true work would stop and its mission fail. Then what is the legitimate work of the Alliance? It is education, education, education! For any reform that is beneficial and permanent must be the result of education. With the Alliance parties are not an object, but may be and will a means and a method. But when the individual is educated he can be trusted to find the means that will bring about the reforms. If any one or all parties should adopt and advocate the reforms demanded by the Alliance, still the organization would exist and remain seperate and intact from them all, and keep up its campaign of education as a lesson of reform. For without some such reserve and moral force through which all wealth producers could unitedly express their non-partisan demands any party would soon be preverted and degraded, as have been the great parties of Jefferson and Lincoln. In short the Alliance is above parties, but its members will enforce its demands by the ballot through some party

THE TRUE POSITION.

At the meeting of district lecturers the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The public generally seems to be greatly exercised over the supposed relation of the Alliance to political parties and partisan politics, therefore in order to make known the true position of the Alliance as we understand, and in order, further, that one expression may speak for each and all of us on this matter, be it

Resolved, That we, the duly elected and authorized lecturers of the State, composing the State lecture bureau, do unanimously set forth that the Alliance as an organization has not and cannot have any connection whatever with any political party in a partisan sense. That the Alliance can never become a political party. That if any or all parties that do now exist or may hereafter exist were to endorse into its demands and platform of principles, etc., the organization as a great educator on economic lines must still exist and remain intact, separate and distinct from any and all party organizations whatever. With us, as an organization, parties are not an object nor an end. It is our mission to educate on the lines of truth, right and justice. It is for the individual as a citizen, consulting his conscience guided by an educated intellect, to choose the means through which the end—an honest and just government—can be attained.

RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The North Carolina railroad commission has issued the following circular, and its provisions are good:

1. Whenever any passenger train on any railroad in the State shall be more than thirty minutes behind its schedule time, it shall be the duty of said railroad company to bulletin and to keep posted at any telegraph station along its line, and others stations, if possible, the time such train is behind its schedule time, and as near as can be approximated the time of its arrival.

2. Whenever there is any break or obstruction on any railroad in this State, thereby causing delay to any passenger train, it be the duty of said road to have the same bulletined at and between the said passenger train and the place so obstructed and it shall be the duty of the conductor to notify the passengers in the cars before leaving the station of the delay probably resulting.

MR. MILLS FOR SENATOR.

The defeat of Roger Q. Mills for Speaker has given a widespread support, it is said, to the efforts of his admirers to elect him to the United States Senate. Governor Hogg has stated that an extra session of the legislature will be called in March or April. The election of a successor to John M. Reagan will be one of the duties of the body. Senator Chilton holds his appointment from the governor, and although a candidate for election by the legislature the friends of Mr. Mills are said to be confident of electing the tariff reform champion.

A FALLEN MAN.

Rev. J. T. Abernathey, a Methodist Preacher, Kisses Another Man's Wife and is Shot by the Irate Husband.

A most deplorable affair occurred at Snow Hill, Green county, last week. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Grimsley, who lived at this place, were living together unhappily. Mr. Abernathey, the minister on that circuit, was in to see Mr. Grimsley to try and reconcile them, and when he left he kissed her. Mr. Grimsley, who suspected something, had hid himself in the room with his gun. He rushed out and in his hurry he made a missfire of one barrel, which was loaded with "buck-shot," but was successful with the other one, which was loaded with squirrel-shot, and Mr. Abernathy was shot in face and hands one shot going through his tongue. The wound, though painful, is not considered fatal. Mrs. Grimsley is a daughter of ex-sheriff Murrill, of Onslow county.

LATER.

Grimesly and Abernathy Meet Again.

It was reported in Clinton from good authority that W. E. Grimsley and Rev. J. T. Abernathy had another meeting last Monday at Snow Hill with more serious results than the preceding. Both well armed with pistols and meeting on the street began firing at each other at the same time. Abernathy was struck in the chin, the ball ranging around the jaw bone and lodging in the back of the head, making a painful and serious wound. Grimsley was struck about the knee making a slight flesh wound.

Both combatants emptied the chambers of their revolvers at each other, and both narrowly escaped receiving fatal wounds. This is one of the saddest and most deplorable affairs that has ever taken place in in our State. Public sentiment is with Mr. Grimsley while all deplore that a minister of the gospel should so far depart from all rules of propriety as to place himself in a position to be so much disgraced.

The report that Mr. and Mrs. Grimsley lived together unhappily is denied. Mrs. G. was a daughter of Mr. Ed. Murrill, and not of ex-Sheriff Murrell, as above stated.

DUPLIN COUNTY.

KENANSVILLE ITEMS.

The fall term of our Superior Court is now in session, Judge Boykin presiding, with his usual ability and discretion. There have been several cases, involving fearful crimes tried and sentenced.

The first case was that of Groves, a white man, sentenced to five years in the Penitentiary for a crime, the details of which are too filthy for appearance in a decent paper like we recognize yours to be.

The second case was that of a colored woman charged with infanticide, found guilty and sentenced to be hanged the latter part of next month.

In rendering the sentencement His Honor was certainly very impressive. The supposed criminal, however, evinced not the slightest concern. The plea of insanity offered by the defense was of no avail.

This town, hitherto noted for its comparative dullness, seems to have awakened partially, at least, from its quiet, and is now looking up. Some building and repairing is going on. The hotel has been repainted under the management of the Messrs. Farrior Bros., and boarders say the table is well supplied and reasonable comfort afforded the guests.

Rev. A. R. Raven and family, pastor of the Methodist Church, arrived last evening and will enter immediately upon his ministerial work.

The perpetual spring, now pavilioned, yields its refreshing draughts of delightful water, and it is both the pride and boast of its patrons.

This is, as well known, a healthy place, and its reputation for good society is almost universally conceded.

SEN. PEFFERS FIRST BILL.

Mr. Peffer, of Kansas, presented his first bill as follows:

"To amend the Immigration and National Election laws; to provide a service of pensions for surviving soldiers of the war and additional amount to pensioners of war; to reduce the number of pension rating to ten; to abolish pension agencies and to lessen the expenses of examining board."

Among the other measures introduced in the United States Senate, was one to reduce letter postage to one cent per ounce; to provide for the election of Senator by the people.

GOOD FARMING.

Mr. J. H. Sugg told us the other day that one of his tenants, Mr. B. F. Rouse, has made twenty one five-hundred pound bales of cotton on twenty acres, thirty-four barrels of corn on five acres, 100 bushels of sweet potatoes and thirty-three barrels of Irish potatoes this year, all of which he tended with one mule. This is a splendid yield and we doubt if it can be beat in the State. The land on which this was grown lies near Kinston.—Kinston Free Press.

Yes, good farming but mighty poor pay he gets for it. Yes, but few can show more produce, but these many who produce nothing who can show more money?

One of the most sickening headaches is caused by railroad traveling. Bradycrotine prevents and cures it.

Snares for Weak Men.

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES AT ANN ARBOR ON NETS FOR THE SOUL.

The Dangers Are Both Seen and Unseen.--There is a Snare for the Ignorant and a Still More Dangerous Snare for the Youth Proud of His Intellect.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 13.—Our citizens in large numbers have availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing Dr. Talmage, who is visiting the city by invitation of the students of the university. Last night a vast audience greeted the famous Brooklyn preacher at his lecture, and this evening, when he was announced to preach a special sermon to young men, there was no building in the city that would accommodate all who wanted to hear him. His text was Proverbs i, 17, "Surely in vain the net is spread in the sight of any bird."

Early in the morning I went out with a fowler to catch wild pigeons. We hastened through the mountain gorge and into the forest. We spread out the net, and covered up the edges of it as well as we could. We arranged the call bird, its feet fast and its wings flapping, in invitation to all fowls of heaven to settle down there. We retired into a booth of branches and leaves and waited.

After awhile, looking out of the door of the booth, we saw a flock of birds in the sky. They came nearer and nearer, and after awhile were about to swoop into the net, when suddenly they darted away. Again we waited. After awhile we saw another flock of birds. They came nearer and nearer until just at the moment when they were about to swoop they darted away.

The fowler was very much disappointed as well as myself. We said to each other, "What is the matter?" and "Why were not these birds caught?" We went out and examined the net, and by a flutter of a branch of a tree part of the net had been conspicuously exposed, and the birds coming very near had seen their peril and darted away. When I saw that, I said to the old fowler, "That reminds me of a passage of Scripture, 'Surely in vain is the net spread in the sight of any bird.'" Now, the net in my text stands for temptation.

'The call bird of sin tempts men on from point to point and from branch to branch until they are about to drop into the net. If a man finds out in time that it is the temptation of the devil, or that evil men are attempting to capture his soul for time and for eternity, the man steps back. He says, "I am not to be caught in that way; I see what you are about; surely in vain is the net spread in the sight of any bird."

THE SUBTLETY OF THE DEVIL.

There are two classes of temptations—the superficial and the subterraneous—those above ground, those under ground. If a man could see sin as it is he would no more embrace it than he would embrace a leper. Sin is a daughter of hell, yet she is garlanded and robed and trinketed. Her voice is a warble. Her cheek is the setting sun. Her forehead is an aurora. She says to men: "Come, walk this path with me; it is thymed and primrosed, and the air is bewitched with the odors of the hanging gardens of heaven; the rivers are rivers of wine, and all you have to do is to drink them up in chalices that sparkle with diamond and amethyst and chrysoprasus. See! It is all bloom and roseate cloud and heaven."

Oh, my friends, if for one moment the choiring of all these concerted voices of sin could be hushed we should see the orchestra of the pit with hot breath blowing through fiery flute, and the skeleton arms on drums of thunder and darkness beating the chorus, "The end thereof is death."

I want to point out the insidious temptations that are assailing more especially our young men. The only kind of nature comparatively free from temptation, so far as I can judge, is the cold, hard, stingy, mean temperament. What would Satan do with such a man if he got him? Satan is not anxious to get a man who after awhile may dispute with him the realm of everlasting meanness. It is the generous young man, the warm hearted young man, the social young man that is in especial peril.

A pirate goes out on the sea, and one bright morning he puts the glass to his eye and looks off, and sees an empty vessel floating from port to port. He says, "Never mind; that's no prize for us." But the same morning he puts the glass to his eye, and he sees a vessel coming from Australia laden with gold, or a vessel from the Indies laden with spices. He says, "That's our prize; bear down on it!" Across that unfortunate ship the grappling hooks are thrown. The crew are blindfolded and are compelled to walk the plank. It is not the empty vessel, but the laden merchantman that is the temptation to the pirate.

And a young man, empty of head, empty of heart, empty of life—you want no Young Men's Christian association to keep him safe; he is safe. He will not gamble unless it is with somebody else's stakes. He will not break the Sabbath unless somebody else pays the horse hire. He will not drink unless some one else treats him. He will hang around the bar hour after hour waiting for some generous young man to come in. The generous young man comes in and accosts him and says, "Well, will you have a drink with me today?" The man, as though it were a sudden thing for him, says, "Well—well, if you insist on it, I will—I will."

Too mean to go to perdition unless somebody else pays his expenses! For such young men we will not fight. We would no more contend for them than Tartary and Ethiopia would fight as to who should have the great Sahara desert, but for those young men who are buoyant and enthusiastic, those who are determined to do something for time and for eternity—for them we will fight, and we now declare everlasting war against all the influences that assail them, and we ask all good men and philanthropists to wheel into line, and all the armies of heaven to bear down upon the foe, and we pray Almighty God that with the thunderbolts of his wrath he will strike down and consume all these influences, that are attempting to destroy the young men for whom Christ died.

THE CANT OF "LIBERALITY."

The first class of temptations that assaults a young man is led on by the skeptic. He will not admit that he is an infidel or atheist. Oh, no! He is a "free thinker." He is one of your "liberal" men. He is free and easy in religion. Oh, how liberal he is! He is so "liberal" that he will give away his Bible. He is so "liberal" that he will give away the throne of eternal justice. He is so "liberal" that he would be willing to give God out of the universe. He is so "liberal" that he would give up his own soul and the soul of all his friends. Now what more could you ask in the way of liberality? The victim of this skeptic has probably just come from the country. Through the intervention of friends he has been placed in a shop.

On Saturday the skeptic says to him, "Well, what are you going to do tomorrow?" He says, "I am going to church." "Is it possible?" says the skeptic. "Well, I used to do those things. I was brought up, I suppose, as you were, in a religious family, and I believed all those things, but I got over it. The fact is, since I came to town I have read a great deal, and I have found that there are a great many things in the Bible that are ridiculous. Now, for instance, all that about the serpent being cursed to crawl in the Garden of Eden because it had tempted our first parents; why, you see how absurd it is; you can tell from the very organization of the serpent that it had to crawl; it crawled before it was cursed just as well as it crawled afterward; you can tell from its organization that it crawled. Then all that story about the whale swallowing Jonah, or Jonah swallowing the whale, which was it? It don't make any difference, the thing is absurd; it is ridiculous to suppose that a man could have gone down through the jaws of a sea monster and yet kept his life; why, his respiration would have been hindered; he would have been digested; the gastric juice would have dissolved the fibrine and coagulated albumen, and Jonah would have been changed from prophet into chyle. Then all that story about the miraculous conception—why, it is perfectly disgraceful! Oh, sir, I believe in the light of nature. This is the Nineteeth century. Progress, sir; progress. I don't blame you, but after you have been in town as long as I have you will think just as I do."

Thousands of young men are going down under that process day by day, and there is only here and there a young man who can endure this artillery of scorn. They are giving up their Bibles. The light of nature! They have the light of nature in China; they have it in Hindostan; they have it in Ceylon. Flowers there, stars there, waters there, winds there; but no civilization, no homes, no happiness. Lancets to cut, and juggernauts to fall under, and hooks to swing to; but no happiness. I tell you, my young brother, we have to take a religion of some kind.

We have to choose between four or five. Shall it be the Koran of the Mohammedan, or the Shaster of the Hindoo, or the Zendavesta of the Persian, or the Confucius writings of the Chinese, or the Holy Scriptures? Take what you will; God helping me, I will take the Bible. Light for all darkness; rock for all foundation; balm for all wounds. A glory that lifts its pillars of fire over the wilderness march.

Do not give up your Bibles. If these people scoff at you as though religion and the Bible were for only for weak-minded people, you just tell them you are not ashamed to be in the company of Burke the statesman, and Raphael the painter, and Thorwaldsen the sculptor, and Mozart the musician, and Blackstone the lawyer, and Bacon the philosopher, and Harvey the physician, and John Milton the poet.

Ask them what infidelity has ever done to lift the fourteen hundred millions of the race out of barbarism. Ask them when infidelity ever instituted a sanitary commission; and, before you leave their society once and forever, tell them that they have insulted the memory of your Christian father and spit upon the deathbed of your mother, and with swine's snout rooted up the grave of your sister who died believing in the Lord Jesus.

ALL SUFFICIENCY OF THE SCRIPTURES.

Young man, hold on to your Bible; it is the best book you ever owned. It will tell you how to dress, how to bargain, how to walk, how to act, how to live, how to die. Glorious Bible! Whether on parchment or paper, in octavo or duodecimo, on the center table of the drawing room or in the counting room of the banker. Glorious Bible! Light to our feet and lamp to our path. Hold on to it!

The second class of insidious temptations that comes upon our young men is led on by the dishonest employer. Every commercial establishment is a school. In nine cases out of ten the principles of the employer become the principles of the employee. I ask the older merchants to bear me out in these statements.

If, when you were just starting in life in commercial life, you were told

The man who waits for other people to right his wrongs will die—waiting.

You can legislate prosperity or adversity upon yourselves.—Thomas Jefferson.

Capital will never release its grip on American labor until that labor takes a master's grip on capital.

The election of the president and senate by the direct vote of the people will be a step in the way of reform.

Your vote next year, if you vote right, will be a nail in the coffin of plutocracy. Decide what is right before the next election. That is going into politics.

Any platform that does not provide for the best interests of every honorable occupation is too narrow for the accomplishment of thorough and enduring reform.—Pointers.

Organized labor, to be successful, must be true to itself. A failure to recognize in our own individual dealings, what we, as organized bodies are struggling for, breeds dissension, lack of confidence in men or measures, and distrust in the efficacy of secret organizations. Mutual fraternity should be practical as well as theoretical.

The annual message of President Harrison to Congress was a long and tiresome one. There was nothing of interest only his attempt to defend the outrages of a billion dollar Congress and an apology for the ravages of Wall Street on his people. It is too long, and is too much of a burlesque on statesmanship to publish or even give extracts.

To economize is to stint, which means that we should consume less. How will this help us to dispose of our "over-production," which is the chief cause of hard times according to the political economy of the Republican apostles. In the next breath they tell us that the extravagance and luxury of the rich make good times. How shall we reconcile these oppositions? If labor received all that it earned would there be any need of stint by the laborer, and would the extravagance of the privileged class be possible?

HANGING IN BLADEN.

Our readers will remember the arrest of the negro James Johnson in the lower part of this county, near Parkersburg, last August, by Mr. F. D. Parker and others. The negro was charged with the murder of a colored girl named Sutton. He was hung for the crime at Elizabethtown, in Bladen county, on last Friday. This is the first public execution in in that county for over a quarter of a century.

The "American Tobacco Company" has already struck the leaf trade a severe blow, but now, with its Galveston policy, it aims a deadly shot at our manufacturing interests. If the jobbers should accept the demands made by the company, North Carolina plug will go begging before two years. If the jobbers allow themselves to be ruled by the trust, our prosperous factories would be closed and our manufacturers looking for occupation. Oxford Public Ledger.

NINTH WONDER.

The ninth wonder of the world is a little address issued to the people by nine gentlemen of the State advising them to be conservative. Why they could imagine that the people of North Carolina were not conservative is why we call it a wonder. Yes, North Carolina people are conservative, too conservative in fact.—Salisbury Watchman.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my Lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all, eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at Dr. R. H. Holliday's drugstore, Clinton, N. C.; and at J. R. Snares for Weak Men.

that honesty was not marketable, that though you might sell all the goods in the shop you must not sell your conscience, that while you were to exercise all industry and tact you were not to sell your conscience—if you were taught that gains gotten by sin were combustible, and at the moment of ignition would be blown on by the breath of God until all the splendid estate would vanish into white ashes scattered in the whirlwind—then that instruction has been to you a precaution and a help ever since.

There are hundreds of commercial establishments in our great cities which are educating a class of young men who will be the honor of the land, and there are other establishments which are educating young men to be nothing but sharpers. What chance is there for a young man who was taught in an establishment that it is right to lie, if it is smart, and that a French label is all that is necessary to make a thing French, and that you ought always to be honest when it pays, and that it is wrong to steal unless you do it well?

Suppose, now, a young man just starting in life enters a place of that kind where there are ten young men, all drilled in the infamous practices of the establishment. He is ready to be taught. The young man has no theory of commercial ethics. Where is he to get his theory? He will get the theory from his employers.

One day he pushes his wit a little beyond what the establishment demands of him, and he fleeces a customer until the clerk is on the verge of being seized by the law. What is done in the establishment? He is not arraigned. The head of the establishment says to him, "Now be careful, be careful, young man; you might be caught; but really that was splendidly done; you will get along in the world, I warrant you." Then that young man goes up until he becomes head clerk. He has found there is a premium on iniquity.

One morning the employer comes to the establishment. He goes into his counting room and throws up his hands and shouts, "Why the safe has been robbed!" What is the matter? Nothing, nothing; only the clerk who has been practicing a good while on customers is practicing a little on the employer. No new principle introduced into that establishment. It is a poor rule that will not work both ways. You must never steal unless you can do it well. He did it well. I am not talking an abstraction; I am talking a terrible and a crushing fact.

TEMPTATIONS IN TRADE.

Now here is a young man. Look at him today. Look at him five years from now, after he has been under trial in such an establishment. Here he stands in the shop today, his cheeks ruddy with the breath of the hills. He unrolls the goods on the counter in gentlemanly style. He commends them to the purchaser. He points out all the good points in the fabric. He effects the sale. The goods are wrapped up and he dismisses the customer with a cheerful "good morning," and the country merchant departs so impressed with the straightforwardness of that young man that he will come again and again, every spring and autumn, unless interfered with.

The young man has been now in that establishment five years. He unrolls the goods on the counter. He says to the customer, "Now those are the best goods we have in our establishment;" they have better on the next shelf. He says, "We are selling these goods less than cost;" they are making twenty per cent. He says, "There is nothing like them in all the city;" there are fifty shops that want to sell the same thing. He says, "Now, that is a durable article, it will wash;" yes, it will wash out.

The sale is made, the goods are wrapped up, the country merchant goes off feeling that he has an equivalent for his money, and the sharp clerk goes into the private room of the counting house, and he says, "Well, I got rid of those goods at last; I really thought we never would sell them; I told him we were selling them less than cost, and he thought he was getting a good bargain; got rid of them at last." And the head of the firm says, "That's well done; splendidly done!"

Meanwhile God had recorded eight lies—four lies against the young man, four lies against his employer, for I undertake to say that the employer is responsible for all the iniquities of his clerks, and all the iniquities of those who are clerks of these clerks, down to the tenth generation, if those employers inculcated iniquitous and damning principles.

I stand before young men this morning who are under this pressure. I say, come out of it. "Oh!" you say, "I can't; I have my widowed mother to support, and if a man loses a situation now he can't get another one." I say, come out of it. Go home to your mother and say to her, "Mother, I can't stay in that shop and be upright; what shall I do?" and if she is worthy of you she will say, "Come out of it, my son—we will just throw ourselves on him who hath promised to be the God of the widow and the fatherless; he will take care of us." And I tell you no young man ever permanently suffered by such a course of conduct.

In Philadelphia in a drug shop a young man said to his employer, "I want to please you, really, and I am willing to sell medicines on Sunday; but I can't sell this patent shoe blacking on Sunday." "Well," said the head man, "you will have to do it or else you will have to go away." The young man said: "I can't do it. I am willing to sell medicines, but not shoe blacking." "Well, then, go! Go now." The young man went away. The Lord looked after him. The hundreds of thousands of dollars he won in this world were the smallest part of his fortune. God honored him. By the course he took he saved his soul as well as his fortunes in the future.

A man said to his employer, "I can't wash the wagon on Sunday morning; I am willing to wash it on Saturday afternoon; but, sir, you will please excuse me, I can't wash the wagon on Sunday morning." His employer said, "You must wash it; my carriage comes in every Saturday night, and you have got to wash it on Sunday morning." "I can't do it," the man said. They parted. The Lord looked after him, grandly looked after him. He is worth today a hundred fold more than his employer ever was or ever will be, and he saved his soul.

Young men, it is safe to do right. There are young men in this house today who, under this storm of temptation, are striking deeper and deeper their roots and spreading out broader their branches. They are Daniels in Babylon, they are Josephs in the Egyptian court, they are Pauls amid the wild beasts of Ephesus. I preach to encourage them. Lay hold of God and be faithful.

THE PERILS OF SELF RIGHTEOUSNESS.

There is a mistake we make about young men. We put them in two classes—the one class is moral, the other is dissolute. The moral are safe. The dissolute cannot be reclaimed. I deny both propositions. The moral are not safe unless they have laid hold of God, and the dissolute may be reclaimed. I suppose there are self righteous men in this house who feel no need of God, and will not seek after him, and they will go out in the world and they will be tempted, and they will be flung down by misfortune, and they will go down, down, down, until some night you will see them going home hooting, raving, shouting blasphemy—going home to their mother, going home to their sister, going home to the young companion to whom only a little while ago, in the presence of a brilliant assemblage, flashing lights and orange blossoms, and censers swinging in the air, they promised fidelity and purity and kindness perpetual.

As that man reaches the door she will open it, not with an outcry, but she will stagger back from the door as he comes in, and in her look there will be the prophecy of woes that are coming, want that will shiver in need of fire, hunger that will cry in vain for bread, cruelties that will not leave the heart when they have crushed it, but pinch it again, and stab it again, until some night she will open the door of the place where her companion was ruined, and she will fling out her arm from under her ragged shawl and say, with almost omnipotent eloquence: "Give me back my husband! Give me back my protector! Give me back my all! Him of the kind heart and gentle words and the manly brow—give him back to me!" And then the wretches, obese and filthy, will push back their matted locks, and they will say: "Put her out! Put her out!" Oh, self righteous man, without God you are in peril! Seek after him today. Amid the ten thousand temptations of life there is no safety for a man without God.

But I may be addressing some who have gone astray, and so I assault that other proposition that the dissolute cannot be reclaimed. Perhaps you have only gone a little astray. While I speak are you troubled? Is there a voice within you saying, "What did you do that for? Why did you go there? What did you mean by that?" Is there a memory in your soul that makes you tremble? God only knows all our hearts. Yea, if you have gone so far as to commit iniquities, and have gone through the whole catalogue, I invite you back this hour. The Lord waits for you. "Rejoice! oh, young man, in thy youth, and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth; but know thou that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.

Come home, young man, to your father's God. Come home, young man, to your mother's God. Oh, I wish that all the batteries of the Gospel could today be unlimbered against all those influences which are taking down so many of our young men. I would like to blow a trumpet of warning and recruit until this whole audience would march out on a crusade against the evils of society. But let none of us be disheartened.

Oh, Christian workers, my heart is high with hope. The dark horizon is blooming into the morning of which prophets spoke, and of which poets have dreamed, and of which painters have sketched. The world's bridal hour advances. The mountains will kiss the morning radiant and effulgent, and all the waves of the sea will become the crystal keys of a great organ, on which the fingers of everlasting joy shall play the grand march of a world redeemed. Instead of the thorn there shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the briar there shall come up the myrtle tree, and the mountains and the hills shall break forth into singing, and all the trees of the wood shall clap their hands!

Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

GOLD CRISIS.

And now comes a new chapter in the financial history of the world. The commercial press of Europe distinctly states that the awful bank failures in Europe are due to a "gold crisis"—that gold is insufficient to perform the function of money for the world.

It is but the story of Greed and Rapacity told over and over again. The less money—the more ruin and failure—the greater the poverty—the more violent the losses of the masses—the more complete masterful is the triumph of the money kings. They make every dollar lost by the people. One bank fails, one manbanker is lost—but ten thousand common people bear the burden and pocket the misery. Other money lords reap the fruits. Yes, a gold crisis comes—and ruin and beggary comes with it.—Great West.

BRUTAL ROBBERY.

From 1862 to 1874 there were taken from the tax payers of the United States $2,766,431,430 for the payment of interest on non taxable United States bonds given to those who brought in greenback money for destruction, and who thus invested their money in what the Government made and had to sell in the way of notes, rather than lands, machine shops, mills, railways, mines, etc., the operating of which gives employment to labor and thus adds to the taxable volume and real wealth of the country. During all these years the people have permitted themselves to be robbed. How long will they continue to be thus stolen from?—Pomeroys Advance Thought.

Would it not be better for the Government to pay its debts in full legal tender paper money that it can constitutionally create and pay out, than for it to merely prolong its debt by hiring gold as a basis for money and making all of us, the people, pay taxes to provide interest for the use of the gold? It takes all that we, the people, can earn to pay for the support of Congress and its hummers, and to pay interest on the gold it hires, so that we, the people, cannot earn sufficient money to pay our debts, therefore, every day, away goes ten thousand or more homes for a song, into the hands of those who set out to obtain them.—Ex,

A CHECK UPON CURRUPTION.

The typical newspaper of to-day is far from being perfect, and none knows its deficiency better than those who print it. But when its imperfections have been named and criticized as they should be, the fact remains that it is to-day the greatest check upon political corruption to be found in the land. Years ago the sleepy organs that dozed while thieves plundered the treasuries might still hope for the public respect, but in this day they fail to serve the first purpose of the progressive journal, and an intelligent public so understands it.—Postsville Miner's Journal.

THINK OF THESE FACTS.

Some things to be borne in mind, we respectfully suggested, are enumerated and specified below:

1. The railroads of this country are collecting $500,000,000 each year on fictitious bonds and stocks.

2. The Western Union Telegraph Company is demanding and collecting high dividends on $42,000,000 of admittedly watered stock.

3: If the railroads were confined to 8 per cent. dividends on the cost of construction, one-half the present passenger and freight tolls would pay such dividends and all running expenses.

4. The General Government could duplicate the Western Union lines for one-fourth the amount on which it now pays dividends.

5. Wm. L. Scott, the great coal baron, says that the proper way of controlling labor is to "make the laborer eat today what they can earn to morrow. The New York Tribune says that the "small farmers must sell their farms to large landowners and become tenant farmers."—San Francisco Star.

JAPAN'S PARLIAMENT

At Last Accounts the Government Was Having a Stormy Time in the House.

The Japanese parliament or diet, as it seems to be officially called, has sat for nearly five months, and the chief characteristics of the proceedings of the lower house so far are a marked hostility to the government and a marvelous facility for raising delicate points of constitutional law and practice, the discussions on which are usually carried on with great heat to a resolution of the house, which the government either refuses wholly to accept or accepts only after some difficulty. But when the last mail left matters had at length reached what appeared to be a deadlock in regard to two important topics.

By the constitution delegates of the government can appear at any time in either house and explain government measures. They are also liable to be questioned by the members. This practice has led to frequent squabbles, delegates refusing to answer particular questions, the house calling for new delegates and the government supporting their delegates. The first serious difference between the house and the government took place on this question, and now it has been raised again in another shape. A prolonged debate on the budget having been concluded by the closure, just as the division on the main question was about to be taken, the delegate from the foreign office claimed the right to speak, as delegates could speak at any time.

There were violent objections to a delegate speaking when he could not be answered, and the house voted against hearing him. The following day the prime minister himself appeared in the tribune, and declared that the refusal to hear the delegate was unconstitutional, and that if the house objected to the rights given to government delegates the proper course was to make a representation on the subject, and, if necessary, have that provision of the constitution amended. The house appeared disinclined to take this view, but the delegate withdrew, observing that, as the prime minister had said all he wanted to say, he need not stay.

The second topic is much more serious. The committee on the budget had cut down the estimates in the most extraordinary way; offices are abolished (including legations abroad), the staff of departments are reduced to a mere fraction of their number, sub-departments and bureaus are swept away altogether, and the salaries of the officials remaining, beginning with the prime minister himself, are reduced sometimes to a third of the present amounts. The sixty-seventh article of the constitution provides that a large portion of the expenditure, classed as "fixed expenditures," shall not be reduced by the diet without the concurrence of the government, and an ordinance was passed defining these fixed expenditures.

The lower house, however, has resolved that this ordinance is ultra vires, and has interpreted this clause of the constitution for itself in a sense wholly opposed to that of the government, and in such a way as largely to reduce the items of expenditure, with which it has no power to deal without the concurrence of the latter. Both the prime minister and the minister of finance delivered vigorous addresses to the house on the unconstitutional nature of its proceedings, and the minister of finance declared that the government would, if the house persisted in its course, announce its dissent and take other measures provided by the constitution.

The situation is regarded by the native press as one of great gravity, but there appeared at the time the mail left to be no prospect of the house altering its position. The house of peers had not yet come to the consideration of the matter.—London Times.

Portuguese Workmen.

Among Portuguese workmen—and I now allude to those who had learned a handicraft—there is what I may style, without exaggeration, a national want of the perception of accuracy. There is an unfortunate expression "a little more or less," and this is in constant use, verbally and practically. A door may gape at the top or bottom, windows almost invariably rattle in their sashes, but you will never persuade the carpenter that his work is badly done; he will acknowledge the existence of what are pointed out as defects, and answer, "That's no harm—what does it matter?"

From the same cause, straight or parallel lines and right angles, the careful carrying out of which makes all the difference in the finished look of work, are also "a little more or less," and the vagaries of a furrow in any plowed field must be seen to be appreciated.

The actual supply of first rate workmen is practically nil, and the artisan is not only unequal to the production of excellence in his special line, but, what is worse, does not possess the moral faculty of judging and enjoying the sight of perfect specimens of workmanship. Stonecutting seems to have been for centuries an art in which the Portuguese have excelled. This and silversmith's work are the two crafts which may be exempt from the sweeping condemnation passed on the artisan of the present day.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Not a One.

LOCALS:

—3000 subscribers—we must have them. Help us, you will make a half a dollar by it.

—Rev. Mr. Wooten, of Wilmington will preach in the Episcopal church on Christmas day.

—A "half dollar made." Read our proposition. An opportunity for both new and old subscribers.

—The Literary Club will meat at Mr. John R. Beaman's Sr. to-night for reorganization. Let all come out.

—If you get a sample copy of this paper it is an invitation to you to subscribe. If you do so before January 1st you get it for $1.00.

—Bush Hill S. S. showed their appreciation of the work of their worthy Superintendent T. L. Hubbard, by giving him a very substantial pounding.

—If you have not yet subscribed for THE CAUCASIAN be sure to do so before January 1st. Of course you would like to have it and by subscribing during the next two weeks you will save a half a dollar.

—The Colored Fair opened yesterday. To-day and to-morrow are the big days. They have a very interesting program. E. W. Kerr, Esq., speaks to-day, and Solicitor G. H. White and Dr. E. E. Smith to-morrow.

—If you wish to buy anything consult the advertising columns of THE CAUCASIAN. Those who wish your patronage say so through the paper. Then too, the paper is laboring for your interests and those who patronize the paper are helping you in your battles.

—Mr. Jno. A. Oates, Jr., one of our most promising young men, has accepted the editorship of the N. C. Baptist of Fayetteville. This is a compliment to one so young, but we believe it is deserved and Mr. Oates will make it a success. He has our best wishes.

—Sampson Light Infantry held their quarterly meeting last week. At their next meeting they are to elect a Captain to succeed Capt. T. H. Partrick, resigned. We regret very much that Capt. Partrick has resigned. He was an efficient and will be greatly missed.

—That was a powerful sermon preached by Dr. B. F. Marable on last Sabbath. He graphically depicted and we may say exposed the various compromises that the Devil attempts to make with the Christian, especially the new converts. Not many present, we fear, failed to get hit.

—A christmas gift of one half a dollar to every subscriber of THE CAUCASIAN who pays up during December and renews his subscription one year in advance. Also try to get us new subscriber. If we can reach 3000 subscribers by Jan. 1st we will keep the price at $1.00 a year. If we do not we will be forced to go back to the old price.

—The financial management of our Fair deserves special praise. It was only by such fine management that the authorities have been able to meet all obligations. Thursday of last fair was such a bad day that receipts amounted to but very little, while the expenses were the same. But we are glad to know that they will be able to pay out entirely this year.

—Be sure to read our special proposition for December to both new and old subscribers. It is a half a dollar made. Don't miss it. By helping us to get 3000 subscribers you will be helping yourself and every subscriber of the paper. Three thousand subscribers at $1.00 each is exactly the same money to us as two thousand at $1.50, but it is a half dollar saved to you.

—We regret to learn of the assignment of Messrs. D. F. Colwell & Co., who were doing business at Harrell's Store. This firm was thought to be doing a very safe business and was a great help to that section. Mr. Calwell is one of our most highly respected citizens and we regret to hear of his misfortune. The liabilities amount to obout $13,000. Assets not exactly known. The hard times and stringency in money matters is the principle cause of the failure.

—We had a pleasant call last Saturday from Mr. Jno. M. Bell originally of Sampson, but lately of Fayetteville, and his many friends of this section will join us in congratulating Mr. Bell upon his marriage a few days since to Miss Annie Lee, daughter of Robert and Francenia Lee of Little Sugar Loaf, Bladen county. Mr. Bell will make Bladen his future home with our best wishes.

Court in Session.

Court has been in session this week. The crimal docket was very light, the lightest probably ever seen here. Only one case going to the Jury.

Judge Boykin presided with his characteristic fairness and ability. In his charge to the Grand Jury Monday he called attention to the fact that the court house was unsuitable, inadequate and that the jail was unsafe, unhealthy and a public nuisance, therefore instructed the jury to bring in a bill of indictment against the county Commissioners for allowing them to remain in such condition. The Commissioners certainly should take some action with reference to the jail. It is not only insecure and a nuisance located as it is, but it is also cruelty to prisoners to confine them in it. The old idea that anything would do for a while if it was strong, is fast giving way to the humane one that it is wrong to punish a prisoner before he is tried and condemned, for it is a severe punishment to confine a man in a jail that is not only uncomfortable but also detrimental to health. The county must have a new jail. But as to the court house, we don't think that the county should be taxed to build a new one now. Though there is one point that appears strongly to every one of us and that is that all the records and letters of the county are unsafe in the present building. It would be an irreperable calamity if the court house should burn and the records be lost as they would be. By all means they should be in a fire proof vault. But the court room could be made to answer very well if it were furnished with comfortable seats, which could be done at a small cost and the Commissioners should attend to it at once.

Solicitor, O. H. Allen represented the State with his usual justice, firmness and ability.

It was a very nice compliment and one deserved to Mr. F. M. White so young a man to have served his second time as Foreman of the Grand Jury.

The Bank and the Outlook.

As our readers know the Clinton Loan Association, when closed by orders of the State Treasurer, was given until Dec. 22nd to try to put the affairs of the bank in shape to continue business. The bank was given to understand that about $40,000 would have to be raised, or a receiver would be appointed to take charge of the bank and wind up its business. The stockholders have held several meetings discussing the situation and subscribed about $17,000 of new stock among themselves. They then called several citizens meetings in the court house and appealed to the business men of Clinton to subscribe the remainder of the stock. The President of the bank in his speech set forth what a great calamity it would be to the county if a receiver were appointed. That a receiver would proceed to collect at once what was due the bank and that the result would be that many citizens who are largerly involved would be ruined and that the great majority of the county would feel the bad effects either directly or indirectly. About $7,000 additional stock was subscribed, making about $24,000 in all subscribed up to date. The time given for putting the bank on its feet again expires nexr Tuesday. THE CAUCASIAN interviewed Rev. Mr. Stewart the President yesterday afternoon as to the prospects. He said that the outlook was gloomy and that he had but little hopes of raising the stock. He said that if he failed that he would go to Raleigh next Tuesday to look after the appointment of a receiver for the bank. This whole bank affair is certainly very unfortunate, in fact a calamity from every point of view. But at the result of this effort be what it may one thing is certain and must be preset to every business man that Sampson must have banking facilites.

W. R. ROYAL.

What Is The Cause?

The shortest term of court ever held in Sampson county adjourned Wednesday morning. The term was less than two days of actual work trying cases. Court convened Monday. After the Judge's charge, adjourned for dinner, convened at 3 o'clock and finished the criminal docket. Tuesday the civil docket was taken up and by night Court was practically adjourned; and every case on the civil docket, and we think nearly every one on the criminal docket was one where a magistrate has original or co-ordinate jurisdiction and was brought up on appeal. For years the Court terms of this county have been growing shorter and shorter, and the same state of affairs exists in nearly every county of the State. Every effect has a cause or causes, now what are the causes that have brought about this change? The optimist answers that the world is growing better, the pessimist that the people have stopped trying to get justice through the courts. But can we not nearer find the cause in the depressed financial condition of the people. This is certainly the most potent cause in reducing the civil docket. When money is plentiful and times prosperous there is more trading, enterprises and business transactions of all kinds, and litigation is an incident to all business transactions and frequently follows in times of great business activity. A depressed money market not only stops to a great extent business activity, but prevents many from going into litigation who have just grievances. A man who is close now for money will bear a certain amount of injustice and discrimination before he will go into court. But on the criminal docket hard times has generally two opposite effects. There is an increase of petty larceny and a decrease of affrays, assault and battery, etc. Men who are pressed by want and hunger are often tempted to take or rather appropriate what does not belong to them, while on the other hand a man whose family is suffering for bread will often bear an insult rather than resent and be taxed with a fine and cost. Altogether short terms of court can hardly be considered a favorable sign, though it is true as every one knows that many cases have been settled by the Alliance that would otherwise have gone to court. To this extent the lessing of court trials is a genuine blessing.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to the good people of Bush Hill Sunday School, together with other very dear friends, for the generous and substantial manner in which they remembered myself and family on the night of the 10th instant. Knowing as I do the motive which prompted this noble expression of their regard, I feel deeply grateful to them all. Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers the California Fig Syrup Company.

Dr. G. W. Earle, Pickens, S. C., writes: "I recommended B. B. B. to a man who had suffered for years with a malignant ulcer on his leg, seemed to resist all other treatment. After using four or five bottles the ulcer began to heal and his leg is now sound and well."

Half Dollar Made.

You can make a half a dollar in less than a minute any time between now and January 1st, '92. First allow us to say that we have often been asked by our friends why we did not reduce the subscription price of THE CAUCASIAN to $1.00 per year. The answer is short and plain. It is because two thousand subscribers at one dollar each a year is only $2,000, and it costs us more than that to publish the paper. But we had rather send out three thousand copies of the paper at $1.00 each than two thousand copies at $1.50 each Now we wish to reduce the subscription price to $1.00 and only regret that we are not able to do so with only 2,000 subscribers. But we are going to try and will do it if you will help us. Will you do it? During the month of December we offer the paper at $1.00 to all new subscribers. If by January 1st, '92, we have reached 3,000 subscribers, we will put the price permanently at $1.00, if not we will be forced to go back to the old price. Now two of our subscribers should be able to get us one new one, and if you will do it, we will add a thousand new subscribers. If you like THE CAUCASIAN, think it a good paper then say so, and get others to think likewise and to read it also. Now we are not going to do better by our new friends than by our old ones. So every old subscriber who pays up before January 1st, we will let renew at $1.00 in advance for the next year. Now friends, let us pull together and put THE CAUCASIAN to 3,000 and at $1.00 a year.

MRS. ANN R. WILLIAMSON.

Died, of paralysis, near Clinton, on Sunday evening, November 22d, 1891, Mrs. Ann R Williamson, relict of Burrell Williamson, aged 67 years, 6 months and six days. Patiently and submissively, she lay helpless for three weeks. Then our wise and merciful Father, with loving hand, drew the line of death between time and eternity. Long life was closed. Her griefs, trials and cares were over, and her soul went up to God who gave it; for she was a christian of many years, having joined the Baptist church at Rowan in her childhood, and served her Master faithfully, delighting ever to do His will. She enjoyed especially the songs of praise to her Redeemer. Hers was a beautiful, a model life. She was a fond, loving parent. A kind, dutiful, indulgent step-mother, ever faithful to the various duties of life, faithful to the church and to God.

Aunt Ritty, as she was known, had very many friends, and in her sickness, their love and interest were manifest in the kindest care for her wants. We tender our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved children, who, we hope, bow submissively to the loving will of Him who doeth all things well, knowing far better than we know, what is for our good, "For we know that all things worketh together for good to those who love God." Let us praise Him for sparing her life, and mother's true love to them so long.

Having been a faithful member of Laurel Hill Alliance, for three or four years, she was buried with the Alliance ceremonies in the presence of a very large number of sympathizing friends, at the family graveyard, near her home.

MISS DELLA PETERSON,
Committee.

SAVANNAH, GA., March 25, 1889.

Messrs. Lippman Bros.:

I was suffering with weakness and general debility being almost incapacitated from attending to my business. I was forced to call on Dr. Whitehead for treatment. He at once put me on P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium), and after taking two or three bottles my health improved, and, although suffering for some time with general weakness, debility and caturrh, and now comparatively a well man.

THEIR RECEIPES FOR HAPPINESS.

In an uptown reading class a few days since the question arose as to what were the ten elements necessary to happiness in a woman's life. The answers were curious. Here are two selected from the number, showing from what different points of view two women can regard a given subject:

1. No nerves. 2. A good digestion. 3. Money galore. 4 Self satisfaction. 5. Independant widowhood. 6. A capability for enjoyment. 7. The faculty of forgetting. 8. The knack of always saying the right thing in the right place, instead of thinking of it afterward. 9. To expect little from one's friends. 10. To die at 40.

1. A clear conscience. 2. Perfect health. 3. Congenial work. 4. Some measure of success. 5. A few tried friends. 6. To be considered attractive. 7. To retain forever a few illusions. 8. To be able to relieve some of the misery one meets. 9. To be philosophical. 10. And keep from falling desperately in love. —New York Herald.

THE FOOD OF JOHN THE BAPTIST.

A correspondent of the London Daily Graphic, writing upon the locust plague of North Africa, says: "In reference to the diet of St. John the Baptist who lived on 'locusts and wild honey' in the wilderness, there are Sunday school teachers who cannot believe that any one would voluntarily live on such food, and, therefore, say that the 'locust bean,' the fruit of the carab tree, is meant by the writer in the New Testament. I can only reply that the locust cricket, the Acridum Pelerinum, order of Orthoptera, variety Saltatoria—the flying Sauterelle of Africa—is sold at a half-penny per pound in the market place in Biskra (which is the second oasis from the north in the Sahara), and that there it is cooked by boiling with salt and water, as shrimps are boiled here. I myself have little doubt that it is more nutritious that the latter, because in March, when the insect is gathered and dried, it is full of albumen as an egg.

HOW THE PRESIDENT IS PAID.

The President's salary is paid to him in monthly installments of $4,177.67. The warrant is brought to the White House by a special messenger from the Treasury department, and after the president has indorsed it as he would an ordinary draft his private secretary deposits it at the Columbia Bank. When the President is out of town the draft is mailed to him. The same method is pursued in paying the justices of the Supreme Court.

There was once a very rigid mother who actually flogged her daughter for kissing the boys. When the poor girl declared that she would never do it again her mother called her a story-teller and added that after a person once got a taste of it such a person never would quit. Hoc fabula docet, says the Galveston News; that free sugar is so sweet that the people are going to want more free trade all the time.—Norfolk Virginian.

If you wish to appear agreeable in society you must consent to be taught many things which you know already.

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

I beg to announce I have been appointed by Mr. I. W. Harper, the famous Distiller, of Nelson county, Ky., Agent for his superb Hand-Made Sour Mash Whiskey.
